Senator McNamara Dead At 71

Political Friends — And Opponents —
Pay Him Tribute

DETROIT (AP)—Patrick Vincent McNamara, who once earned only nine cents an hour as a pipefitter, today was paid the respect and homage of the state he served in the U.S. Senate for nearly 12 years.

The 71-year-old Michigan Democrat died Saturday night after suffering a stroke at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md. He had been under treatment there since March 11 for a blood clot which settled in a lung.

McNamara, chairman of the important Senate Public Works Committee, announced earlier this year he would not seek a third Senate term. His failing health was believed to have prompted the decision.

An aide of the senator said funeral services would be Wednesday in Detroit's Holy Name Roman Catholic Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

President Johnson and the leading figures of Michigan joined in a tribute to McNamara.

In a statement from the White House, Johnson described him as "a man of good and generous instincts. He served many worthwhile causes with concern for those Americans unable to help themselves, and he will be remembered as a champion of the people."

MOURNING
In Lansing, Gov. George Romney proclaimed a two-day period of mourning throughout Michigan and ordered that U.S. and state flags be flown at half staff.

Leaders in the race for McNamara's senate seat, including ex-Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, Democrats, and U.S. Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., joined in the tributes.

Michigan law permits, but does not require, Romney to appoint a successor to McNamara. Romney declined to discuss his plans until after the senator's funeral. Griffin was thought a likely choice.

McNamara was born in North Waymouth, Mass., son of Irish immigrants and oldest of eight children. He left high school and became an apprentice pipefitter, earning nine cents an hour.

He moved to Detroit in 1920 and became active in union and civic affairs. He married Kathleen.

DOLPH SCHAYES Philadelphia Fires 'Coach Of The Year'

DOLPH SCHAYES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dolph Schayes, "Coach of the Year" in professional basketball, was fired today as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers and replaced by Alex Hannum.

Irv Kosloff, owner of the National Basketball Association club which won the Eastern Division title this year only to be eliminated in the playoffs by the champion Boston Celtics, said he made the coaching change for one reason: "To bring the NBA championship to this city."

Kosloff said Hannum, released at the end of the season after three years as coach of the San Francisco Warriors, "is familiar with the style of our club as he coached it when it was the Syracuse Nationals before moving to Philadelphia."

Romney To Name Successor

Could Name
MSU President
— Or Himself

By DICK BARNES

LANSING (AP) — Republican Congressman Robert Griffin appears to be the best bet to succeed the late U. S. Sen. Patrick McNamara, a six-month appointment which could markedly improve Griffin's underdog chances for election to a full Senate term in November.

Political leaders from Republican Gov. George Romney on down are refusing to speculate publicly on the governor's pending appointment until after Wednesday's funeral for McNamara, an 11-year Senate veteran who died Saturday night.

But the strongest logic points to Griffin, a five-term House member from Traverse City. He was picked 11 weeks ago by Republican leaders as their preferred candidate for the seat McNamara planned to vacate at the end of this term.

Griffin was seen, however, as an underdog to either former Gov. G. Mennen Williams or Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, principal contenders for the Democratic nomination.

But an incumbent position could provide Griffin with additional opportunity to speak, and be heard — by the voters. Michigan law, however, prevents him from using an incumbency designation on the ballot.

The second possible choice Romney might make would be to appoint an interim Senator who would not run for election in November.

JOHN HANNAH?
Best bet for this type of appointment could be Michigan State University president John Hannah.

Some top Republicans had evaluated him last year as the party's best Senate candidate for 1966 but he rejected their overtures. At least one party source said there conceivably could be a fresh attempt to get Hannah to run from the stronger incumbent position.

Deadline for filing for election is June 14.

The other two possible but extremely remote moves Romney could make would be to appoint no one to the vacancy or to name himself.

He is expected to run for a third term as governor, however, and even a chance for an instant Senate seat is not expected to change his course.

Griffin's situation is like that of former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger. He was the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat from which California's Clair Engle planned to retire. Engle died, and Salinger was appointed to the remaining months of the term.

HE LOST
But he lost the November election.

Whoever Romney appoints will serve only until the November election. The balance of McNamara's term — about seven weeks — will then be filled at that election in a separate race parallel to the contest for the six-year term.

Contenders for the seven-week term will almost certainly be the same as those for the six years. Conceivably in a very close election, one man could win the seven-week vacancy and his opponent the six-year term.

U.S. Aims At Future Chinese Leaders

By JOHN M. HIGTOWER
Ap Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deepening mystery over the fate of Mao Tse-tung spurred speculation among U.S. officials today about a possible power shift in Red China with worldwide repercussions.

The belief that the Chinese Communist leadership may be approaching a transition period is one of several reasons for recent overtures by the Johnson administration to reduce tensions and lower barriers between Red China and the United States.

All these gestures have been rebuffed by the Peking regime, but administration experts believe they may have an impact on the foreign policy attitude of future Chinese leaders.

The United States and, so far as Washington authorities can determine, the Soviet Union, also, have been watching the Mao mystery develop for several months with growing fascination.

The interest of Soviet leaders in the possibility of personality changes in the top of the Peking ruling group is believed here to be a prime cause of their determination to hold the door open to some sort of Soviet Chinese reconciliation.

The Chinese refused to attend a recent Communist Party meeting in Moscow but the Soviets nevertheless left the way clear for some later improvement in relations.

Laborers Reject Contract

No Picket Lines; Some Jobs Go On

Construction laborers were off the job in southwestern Michigan today in the wake of a Saturday contract rejection, but construction jobs in the area continued on a limited scale since no picket lines were thrown up.

Five Laborers' locals in Benton Harbor, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids and Muskegon Saturday rejected a three-year contract with the Southwestern Michigan Contractors association, apparently over a 10-cent-per-hour difference in terms for a new contract.

The Benton Harbor Local, No. 819 (AFL-CIO), covers Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties. Local 819 has no intention of throwing up picket lines so long as other crafts honor the strike of construction laborers, according to Business Agent Art Bowles.

He said picket lines would go up, however, if other crafts begin doing laborers' jobs.

Carpenters, ironworkers and other construction crafts were reported still on the job today in this area.

Meanwhile, thousands of construction tradesmen were on strike across lower Michigan today following a near-futile weekend of negotiations affecting work in virtually every metropolitan area of the lower peninsula.

19 COUNTIES
The Saturday walkout by five southwest Michigan laborers unions affected construction projects reportedly worth $175 million in 19 counties.

A return to the conference table apparently will await a call from U.S. Mediator William Reinke in Kalamazoo.

Details of the dispute here were not disclosed, but laborers reportedly walked out when contractors and unions could not come to terms on wage increases. The unions reportedly sought 97 cents over a three-year period, while contractors offered 87 cents.

The current hourly wage is $3.10 plus benefits valued at 18 cents.

Bowles estimated that some 40 to 50 or more construction jobs were affected in Berrien, Van Buren and Cass counties.

The five unions and the contractor's association cover the area from Berrien county to Muskegon, Grand Rapids and Battle Creek.

LOWER MICHIGAN
The strike extended across most of lower Michigan, but in other parts of the state a number of the skilled trades construction workers were on strike too.

Involved were workers in virtually every metropolitan area in Lower Michigan, including Detroit, the Saginaw Valley, Flint, Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Benton Harbor and Muskegon.

Regis O'Brien, business manager for Reinforced Steelworkers Local 426, said the local Sunday voted 10 to one to strike. He said the rodbusters, who place reinforcing steel in concrete,

TWO NEW ENTRIES

Protestants To Begin 'Unified Church' Talks

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — On a note of high hope, representatives of an expanded array of American Christian bodies meet today at a decisive crossroads on their way toward a unified church.

Before them, for the first time, is a specific outline for union — described by one churchman as a "new design" for American Protestantism.

The chairman of the commission which drew it up, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., said he is "more optimistic" than ever about the prospects.

With two additional denominations joining the talks for the first time, eight major communions now are involved with a total of more than 24 million members.

"The whole atmosphere is hopeful," said Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, of the National Council of Churches.

"The whole atmosphere is hopeful," said Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, of the National Council of Churches.

Lightening the scope and drama of the affair was the entry of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, predominantly Negro, and the Presbyterian Church U.S., Southern and mainly white.

The Southern Presbyterians took the step at their annual convention in Montreat, N.C., last week.

This "gives a real lift," to the reunion effort, said the Rev. Dr. George G. Beazley, of Indianapolis, head of the Christian Disciples, Council of Christian Unity.

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, told newsmen that "union" was an inadequate word to describe the process under way here.

"What is happening is that a new design and restructuring of American Protestantism is taking place," he said.

Delinquency Key

Much has been written and said about the motivations of a teenager, what makes him so often stray from the path of honor to a weird experimentation with the off-beat side of life. Yet, for anyone willing to remember his own adolescence, the apparently erratic behavior of a teenager is less difficult to understand.

If the philosophy of life of a teenager could be summed up in one word, it would be recognition. His single most important fear is not that he might do something wrong by adult standards, but that he may bring shame to himself in the eyes of those whose friendship he respects. Control his sense of shame, and you will have won the battle of juvenile delinquency.

That is the opinion of a man who has dealt with a large number of errant youths. Dr. Murray Bilmes, associate professor at the New York School of Psychiatry, told the annual convention of all professions in the mental health field that the glamor of wickedness and danger is cultivated by teenagers to avoid feelings of shame.

"The major problems of the adolescent include achievement, pride, identity, sexual success, independence and attaining respect," the psychologist told more than 7,000 psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers. "A failing in any of these is a loss of face and humiliation, the experience of shame."

Adventure, thrills, courage and prestige, these are the ingredients around which young lives are molded. Give them no challenge around which to employ these traits and they will find their own. Nor is a sense of guilt an effective red light to most adolescents.

"Guilt is the sense of having done something wrong, shame the sense of having failed to live up to one's desired image," said Dr. Bilmes. Probably most parents have not thought of it quite that way, but they know from experience that berating a youngster for being "bad" generally produces little more than a scowl, while calling him "chicken" or "sissy" will bring an immediate challenging response.

Anti-delinquency programs which permit the teenager to develop his special qualities and accept individual challenges are the answer to many of his problems. The adolescent wants to be a non-conformist in order to demonstrate his new-found independence of thought and action.

There is no reason why this nonconformity cannot be accepted by the adult world and channeled into constructive and self-satisfying paths.

Promoting Unemployment And Higher Prices

Twin evils of political expediency and inflation are imposing cruel paradoxes upon the people of this country. Never in history was there such a welter of "social" legislation designed to improve the lot of what the politicians like to call the common man, whoever he is. Hardly a day passes without press releases from Washington, advising the country, that another group of citizens is scheduled to receive subsidies, benefits or payments of one kind or another. All of this, on top of the war in Viet Nam, inevitably results in new "high cost of living" reports.

As inflation quickens, new areas of poverty are created for people living on fixed incomes, social security benefits, annuities and so forth. The search for palliatives to please voting blocs and pressure groups becomes more frantic.

Among measures now in Congress, is the perennial question of increasing the Federal Minimum Wage and extending coverage under the Wage-Hour law. A survey of a group of department stores to determine the impact of the originally proposed increase of $1.75 an hour, now reduced to $1.60, produces some shocking conclusions. One hundred and twenty seven retail enterprises responded to the survey. The replies covered the operations of 339 retail units located in 38 of the 50 states and employing over 50,000 regular employees.

If the original proposal to increase the wage to $1.75 an hour and extend coverage, under the Fair Labor Standards Act, had been accepted by Congress, the law would have had the following effect: 1. Price increases would have ranged from 5 to 10 per cent or more—greatly exceeding the President's wage guidelines. 2. Retail employment would be reduced. 3. Some stores would have been closed because of inability to meet the added labor costs or the costs of the red tape thrust upon them. 4. Many services consumers now get free would be discontinued. The $1.60 figure will be little better.

Regardless of the action Congress takes on the minimum wage question, laws of this kind are not an answer to inflation. They simply create a mirage of well being.

Free Seas

Three quarters of the earth is covered by water. In the opinion of Vice Admiral John S. McCain, Jr., U.S. Navy, unrestricted access to the "free real estate" of the seas, is essential to the survival of our nation. This is as true now as in the pre-nuclear era.

Admiral McCain is well qualified to speak. He is Vice Chairman and Naval Representative to the U. S. Delegation to the United National Military Staff Committee, and Commander Eastern Sea Frontier and Commander Atlantic Reserve Fleet. He has a long and distinguished record. His views on sea power leave no doubt that the security of the United States depends upon naval and merchant ship superiority along the sea lanes of the world. In addition there is a rapidly growing need for development of the foods and minerals available to mankind in the ocean's depths.

In the words of Admiral McCain, "From a geopolitical as well as from a military standpoint we have a profound interest in every section of the world. More than 70,000 miles of vital ocean routes unite the free world and bring together its vast resources. These ocean routes are as fundamental to our own survival as eating, breathing and sleeping are to the human body. They must remain open."

While the competition in space continues, we should not lose sight of the fact that Russia has the second largest navy in the world, including 400 submarines, many nuclear powered. Communist China has also embarked on a massive buildup of naval strength.

Watch Your Hide!

Taxes have been described as the price we pay for civilization. By the looks of things, we may be getting too civilized for our own good.

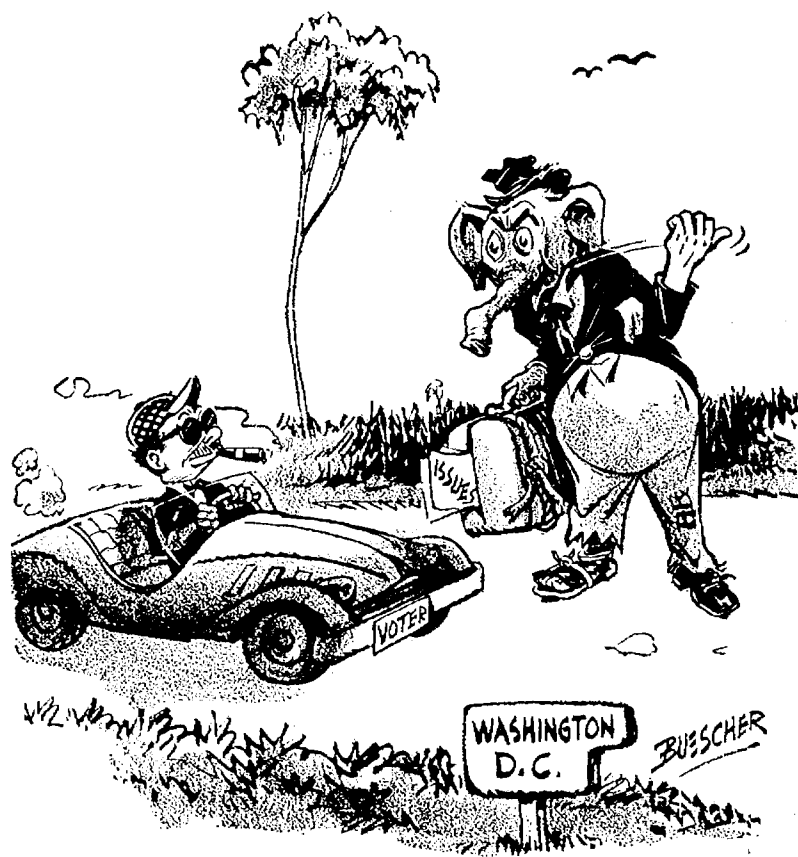

The editor of the Belton, Texas, Journal and Democrat, observes that: "More taxes seem to be coming. Something ought to be done, and many of us hope the Great Society will be curtailed, while we are still alive to enjoy the society we already have. Some government economists look upon us taxpayers as sheep, figuring we can be sheared and sheared again. True, but you can skin a sheep only once."

If any of the voters are worrying about this, they might look in the mirror to find the cause of their concern. When we ask for federal handouts we get them for votes, but we pay for them in taxes, and then some. When we send a tax dollar to Washington, the "free lunch" we get back may only be worth fifty cents, with political overhead, carrying charges and inflation taken out.

If we want to give our wool for civilization, but keep our hides for ourselves, we can make our wishes known in the voting booth at every opportunity.

Heart disease remains a bigger menace than indigestion because there are still many persons who are not forced to eat their words.

"Certainly, sir," answered the clerk without a flicker of a smile. "I presume you'll want one with a tassel, sir." The manager thought this might be a good moment to close shop for the day. By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Is it safe for a child who is born with a heart murmur or one who has had mild rheumatic heart disease to take part in normal school activity?

There was a time when children with a heart murmur were limited from all strenuous activity. Unfortunately, this attitude of over-protection produced psychological disturbances in these children who were unnecessarily made "heart cripples."

Now, these children with functional heart murmurs are encouraged to take part in all forms of exercise. Many have turned out to be champion athletes.

Children who have had some heart damage after rheumatic fever must pattern their physical activity after their doctor's specific recommendation. The extent of the heart damage can be determined by regular, repeated examinations.

Physical activity can be increased depending on the patient's progress and his increased heart reserve.

In every possible circumstance these children should be released from the binding limits imposed on them by the anxiety of their parents.

West's bidding would have been well rewarded had he been sufficiently inspired to lead a trump against the slam. Had he done that, South undoubtedly would have gone down one.

But West led a club, as most players would, and South should have had no trouble making the contract by cashing the ace of

The Salk vaccine is given by injection. The amount depends on the size and age of the child. Booster shots to keep up the immunity are given at definite intervals.

The Sabin vaccine is given by mouth. A calculated amount is poured on a cube of sugar and made palatable.

Both vaccines are exceedingly safe and produce a high degree of immunity.

No child should be deprived of this remarkable protection especially since there was not one single case of Polio reported last year in New York State in children who had been completely vaccinated.

Is it possible for some people not to run a fever during an infection?

The statement is made by some people that "no matter how sick they are they never run a fever." Almost always this is a false notion. Fever is an indication that the body's defense mechanisms are actively protecting it against the invasion of bacteria.

Only in rare instances of severe illness does this protective device fail. When people are really sick because of severe infections, fever is present.

clubs and A-K of hearts, and then ruffing clubs and diamonds back and forth until he had twelve tricks in the till.

But South, for reasons unknown, at one point during the crossruff elected to ruff dummy's fourth heart low and was lucky enough to find West with the deuce of spades instead of the seven, so that West was unable to overruff.

Despite his alarming method of play, South made the doubled contract for a score of 1,660 points. The only trick he lost was to the king of spades.

A slam was reached at the other table also, the bidding having gone:

West North East South
Pass 1♣ 1♥ 1♠
2♥ 3♥ 4♥ 5♥
Pass 6♥

Again the king of clubs was led and again declarer made the slam, though at this table South played the hand properly and easily made his twelve tricks. Not having been doubled, however, his team lost 230 points on the deal.

No doubt, reasons can be found for either West to have led a trump to defeat the contract, but there is considerable doubt that more than a handful of players — unless they saw all four hands — would have selected a trump as the opening shot.

Annual Rite Opens Blossom Festival

Hundreds Attend Blessing Despite Chilly Winds

By JAKE SHUBINSKI
Staff Writer

Thousands of Southwestern Michiganders depend on the hand of God for their livelihood.

Hundreds braved the cold, 38 degree winds that swept the Walter Miller farm Sunday afternoon to ask God's blessing on this year's fruit crop.

The annual Blessing of the Blossoms event ushers in a week of festive activities throughout Southwestern Michigan that will be climaxed next Saturday with the Grand Floral parade which follows a 3½ mile route through St. Joseph and Benton Harbor.

There were few blossoms in evidence in the apple orchard of Walter Miller as the Rev. H. Stewart Ross, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, St. Joseph, asked God's "blessing on the fruits and flowers of the earth."

And the blossoms that do adorn the fruit trees of the area were in danger as a frost warning had been issued for Sunday night by the weather bureau. The blessings were delivered by Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, Temple Beth-El, Benton Harbor; the Rev. Christos D. Moulos, Greek Orthodox church, Benton Harbor; the Rt. Rev. Joseph Byrne, St. John's Catholic church, Benton Harbor; and the Rev. Thomas Barnes, First Presbyterian church, Buchanan. GIVING THANKS

Rabbi Schwarz thanked God for the "beauty of the blossoms" and reminded those gathered in the orchard that "man is God's co-worker" and asked God's blessings on "those who labor in the fields."

The Rev. Moulos gave thanks for the "abundance of the earth" and asked for a "bountiful harvest."

Harmony In Store For BH Commission

There will be harmony at Benton Harbor city commission meeting tonight—at least 10 minutes of it.

Tonight has been proclaimed "music night" by Mayor Wilbert Smith, and the Benton Harbor high school Tiger band will see that the meeting gets off to a good start. The band, under direction of Bernardt Kuschel, will present a 10-minute concert in front of city hall, beginning at 7:20 p. m.

Band members, twirlers and a drum major—111 strong—will gather at the YMCA about 7 and conduct a one-unit parade through the five corners to the city building. Then it will serenade commissioners and anyone else who happens to be around.

The concert will open with the National Anthem and feature the Benton Harbor high school fight song. Other numbers will be in a light vein—mostly pop music.

The Branch Y is a member of the Twin Cities United Fund.

Photography of Southwestern Michigan was on exhibit in New England during April as part of a one-man showing by photographer Craig Vollmer of St. Joseph.

Residents of several New England states viewed the public exhibit, staged in the resort area of Woodsville, N.H.

Included in the 40-print exhibition of color and black-and-white work were scenes of the orchards and vineyards in the Southwestern Michigan fruit belt, mural-size views of the St. Joseph river and Lake Michigan, "mood" photographs with a religious or Easter theme, formal and candid portraits,

Queens To Visit Their Hometowns

Annual 'Key To Cities' Event Starts Tomorrow

Another officer will replace Bob Rinker in the driver's seat tomorrow as 28 southwestern Michigan beauties take off on whirlwind tours of their home towns.

Sheriff's Lt. Robert Rinker has headed every Key to the Cities tour since it became a part of Blossomtime. This year the job goes to Chief Deputy Edward Sandera because Rinker is convalescing after undergoing major surgery recently.

"Bob made these schedules just like clockwork as much as possible and it's a real job to keep a caravan moving with just 25 minutes allotted for each stop, except lunch," said Sandera.

The four-day motorcade tour will stop at all 28 communities represented by queens in the Blossom Festival, plus a jaunt to South Bend Friday. The purpose is to spread the message of Blossomtime throughout the area and give every queen an opportunity for a royal greeting from her constituents.

TOUGH SCHEDULES

The schedules are rather exacting because folks in one town don't like to be kept waiting by a prolonged ceremony in another. Sandera has to have the girls returned to the point of origin in Benton Harbor on schedule so they can participate in other Blossomtime events.

The Grand Floral Parade, that will draw hundreds of thousands to the Twin Cities Saturday at 2 p. m., will require more than 100 uniformed policemen from area towns and state police posts to handle crowds and traffic.

Schedule for the Key to the Cities tour with arrival times:

Tuesday — 7 a. m. breakfast at Travel Inn Motel, Benton Harbor; 9:05 Eau Claire; 9:50; Dowagiac; 10:30 Cassopolis; 11:20 Decatur; noon luncheon at Lawrence honoring Miss Blossomtime, Sandy McGowan; 2:40 p. m. Mattawan; 3:20 Lawton; 4:20 Sodus; 5:00 return to Benton Harbor.

Wednesday — 7:45 breakfast at Travel Inn Motel; 9:00 New Troy; 9:45 Union Pier; 10:15 New Buffalo; 10:50 Three Oaks; 11:45 lunch at Berrien Springs; 1:50 Baroda; 2:30 Bridgman; 3:10 Stevensville; 3:50 return to Benton Harbor.

Thursday — 7:45 breakfast at Travel Inn Motel; 9:10 Paw Paw; 10:10 Bangor; 10:35 Hartford; 11:35 Watervliet; 12:30 mayor's luncheon at St. Joseph; 3:00 Coloma; 4:05 South Haven; 5:00 return to Benton Harbor.

Friday — 7:45 mayor's breakfast at Vincent hotel, Benton Harbor; 9:00 Galien; 9:45 Buchanan; 10:40 Edwardsburg; 11:25 lunch at South Bend; 3:20 Niles; 4:30 return to Benton Harbor.

BH Boards Challenge Commission

Dispute Over Pension Engineer

Benton Harbor city commission action suspending monthly payments to an actuarial firm has been challenged by the police and fire pension board.

The board claims the commission lacks authority under provisions of the city charter which give the police and fire pension board power to employ an actuary.

A letter disputing a commission resolution to sever payments to the McCready Pension Engineers of Indianapolis is scheduled to be read to the commission tonight.

Mayor Wilbert Smith, a member of the pension board, said he agrees that the charter gives the pension board autonomous power. However, Smith said that McCready should be fired and a new actuary obtained.

A majority of the pension board declined last year to discharge the actuary on grounds that McCready should straighten out any difficulty.

Storm signals have been flying over the city pension plans for about two years.

Mayor Smith and City Manager Don Stewart have charged the actuary has failed to provide specific information and made certain errors in computations and description.

Norman McCready, head of the firm, met with firemen and policemen Sunday. McCready promised to write a description of the condition of the pension plan in "layman's language," according to Police Lt. Merdith Rynearson, president of the board.

McCready is paid $1,500 annually for management of the police-fire and general pension plans. The commission voted March 27 to halt payments until "further notice."

Concern over soundness of the plans has mounted since a review in 1964 by an Illinois actuary said they were not sufficiently funded and in danger of going on the rocks in future years.

Little Girl Hurt; Police Seek Cause

Found In Hole In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — State police said today they were still investigating the cause of injuries that hospitalized two-year-old Anna Marie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, route 1, South Haven, Friday morning.

The Johnson girl was reported in good condition today at South Haven Community hospital where police said she was suffering from a collapsed lung and abrasions of her arm and head.

Police said the girl was found by her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Lela Burr, South Haven, crying on her hands and knees in a shallow water hole in front of her home on the Breedsville road. She was taken to the hospital by a neighbor after her injuries were discovered.

HIT BY CAR? Police said there was a possibility that the girl had been struck by a car although the extent of her injuries did not seem to indicate that she had been thrown into the water hole from the road 13 feet away.

The Johnson family had been in the process of moving to another house at the time of the accident, police said. Mrs. Johnson said the girl had been placed in her bedroom to be kept out of the way.

Police said the bedroom door was easy to open and theorized it may not have been latched.

Troopers said they received a call about a car being in the river at Townline road. They investigated and sent for skin divers from the Grand Haven station, but on return to the scene found Pippin of 301½ Mechanic street there with a group of friends.

Troopers stated that Pippin admitted the car was his and said he escaped from the window before the car sank. He was uninjured.

Pippin has ten days in which to appear before justice Robert Kruger of New Buffalo township on the charge.

Unique Town Near Sawyer

Most Of Residents Are Baptists, Lutherans

By WILLIAM RUMBLER

South Berrien Bureau

SAWYER — The small settlement of Bethany Beach near Sawyer is truly a Christian resort. It is also one of the most church-going communities in the Twin City area. "Bethany Beach has been planned for those wishing Christian place of rest and recreation, a place where physical and spiritual natures may be strengthened and nourished," states the community's constitution.

The year-around population of the settlement is 75 but it swells around to 1,200 on summer weekends. Baptists and Lutherans comprise most of its residents.

The basic religious outlook of the community was intended from its beginnings 60 years ago and maintained through the years by a unique corporate system, through which residents lease their land instead of actually owning it.

HOW IT STARTED

It began as a summer colony for Swedish Baptists from Chicago. Its residents hope to restrict community membership to active Protestants by screening persons interested in buying land in the town and then selling a lease instead of a deed.

"Owner" of all the land and leases, is the Bethany Beach Corporate Association, which, in turn, is composed of lease holders.

Leases are renewable every 99 years for $1 but can be revoked at any time if the association feels the lessee is not living up to true Christian standards.

As witness to the success of the screening system is the fact that nobody has yet had his lease revoked. As a further device of controlling the type of person living in the community, all transfer of leases from owner to owner are handled through the association instead of being left up to the discretion of the individual owner to choose his successor.

COMMUNITY LIFE

All this has resulted in a community that centers life around religion. This was pointed out by Elmer Lind, now a resident of Shorewood Hills but formerly active in Bethany Beach affairs for 30 years.

"We don't have a distinctive group of people living in Bethany Beach but they certainly are church-going and that's what we wanted," he stated.

The community is governed by a board of directors which meets in Chicago during the winter and in Bethany in the summer. Serving on his one-year term as president of the board is Rolland Blomgren of Kenilworth, Ill.

Lease owners pay a fee to the corporation out of which service charges as well as taxes for the township are taken.

TAX SYSTEM

This practice of paying one lump sum in taxes to the township started a controversy in 1961. Then the township board and the local school board wanted to prohibit residents from voting on bond and tax issues because they said, as individuals, Bethany Beach landowners did not pay taxes.

The conflict was resolved when Paul Adams, then state attorney general, stated his opinion that residents should have their individual votes.

Located near Sawyer road and Red Arrow highway, the town is all but invisible from the busy highway, hidden by a thick line of trees. Entrance is through one road only.

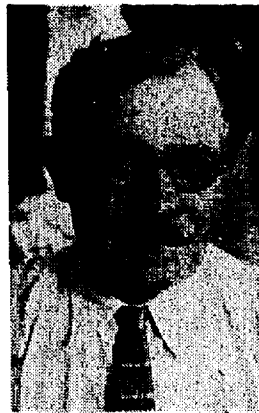

At this time of year its narrow streets are nearly deserted since only 75 persons live there year-around.

AUDITORIUM

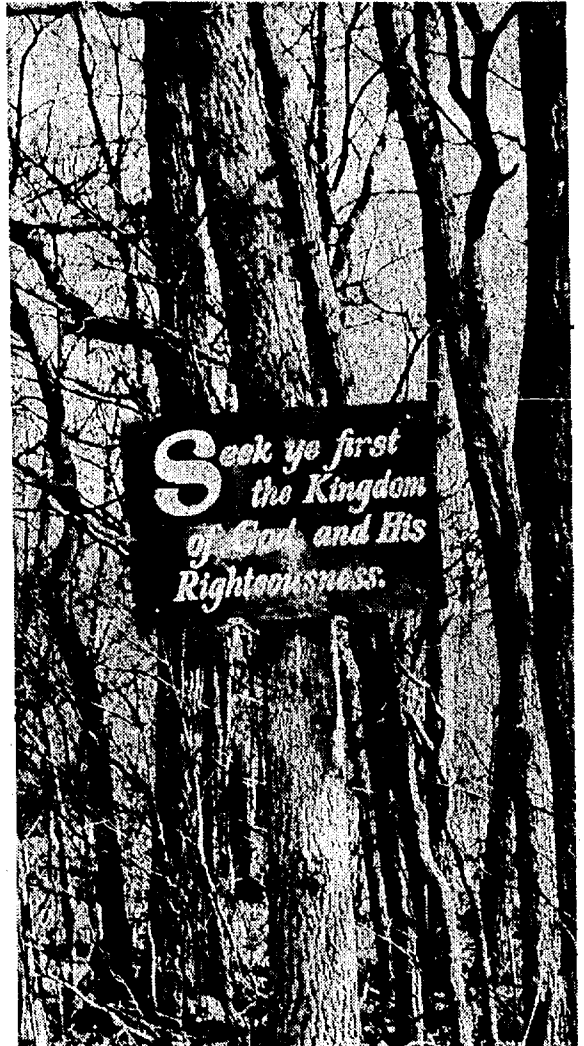

There is an auditorium seating over 500 persons where church services are held in the summer. Well-known ministers and religious leaders are also brought in to give talks during the summer.

In addition to the auditorium, called the Tabernacle, there is a community house built in 1937 mainly for young people. Also for youngsters is a ball field and playground. A youth director is hired for the summer.

Almost all buildings in town

EARLY LEADER: Anton Noreen, who died in 1940, was an early day driving force in the community of Bethany Beach. He bought out six partners to become sole owner of the land in the community, brought electricity into the settlement and operated the only store.

SIGN AT BETHANY: This sign presents a quote from the Bible. It stands by itself with the woods as a background. It is located near the entrance to the town. (Staff photo)

CROWDS GATHER TO HEAR SPEAKER: In 1927 as well as today large crowds gathered to listen to speeches about Christian life given by noted religious leaders and ministers from across the country.

SUMMER CROWD IN 1919: Today as in the past the population of Bethany Beach swelled during the summer, especially over the weekends. Most summertime residents of the community are from Chicago. During their vacations they "lived in their bathing suits at Bethany," Elmer Lind said.

are for summer use only. However, in recent years many owners have winterized their homes. Others who felt that the expense of winterizing an old summer house was unwarranted, built year-around homes in the community of Shorewood Hills, just to the north along the lake.

The community was founded as a summer camp for children. Three men were sent to look for a suitable spot by the Swedish Baptist Sunday School Union of Illinois.

The story has it that the three — Rev. Arvid Hagstrom, the Rev. Charles Palm and James Magnuson — decided on the particular spot when they saw the sun set from atop a high wooded dune and were reminded of Luke 24:50 "And he led them out as far as to Bethany and blessed them."

Because of financial limitations the idea of the summer camp for youngsters never materialized and the land was sold to a syndicate of seven men who in turn sold lots as a business venture.

Eventually one of these men, Anton Noreen, bought out the others. During his time the restriction that residents must be active Protestants was established. Noreen operated the town hotel, store and restaurant plus the water system.

In 1924 residents decided to construct a building to house religious activities with only $200 in the treasury. However, by 1932, in the middle of the depression, the $8,000 auditorium-tabernacle, was paid off.

From 1928 to 1931 the town was reorganized as the Bethany Beach Corporate Association, a non-profit organization under the laws of Michigan.

COMMUNITY LEADERS

Other prominent leaders of the community outside of Noreen were Elmer Lind, J. Verner Carlson of Shorewood Hills and C.J. Erickson of Chicago.

They were responsible for building a long cement stairway from the top of the wooded dune that walls off the community from the lake down to the shore. These men were also partly responsible for the building of a drainage system and the community house.

In later years, members of the community took the initiative in organizing Sawyer Highlands Baptist church on Red Arrow highway, just south of the Sawyer blinker light.

They have also shown vital interest in affairs of the township and recently formed the nucleus of a sponsoring committee interested in building a housing project for their retired in the Sawyer area.

The coming season at Bethany Beach may be inaugurated with a building program if plans materialize. This will include an apartment for a youth director and additional room for Sunday School and youth activities.
